

Scene #3 - Snowcones

Place: astronomy center

Theme: Birthday party

Employee: "Hi! Welcome to Stars n' shit, how can I help you?"

Mother: "Hi! I'm looking for umm- You see my kid has a birthday party here. And we were promised snowcones? Like, really cool ones that look like planets, and um, all we got was ice."

Employee: "Oh! Yeah, that sounds correct!" She continues what she's working on.

Mother: "Um, but snowcones usually have flavors."

Employee: "Ours are flavored ice."

Mother: "Right, that's what the website said, but they're not... they're not flavored. Anything."

Employee: "Yeah, because they're flavored ice."

Mother: "Flavored-... Um, so I think we're maybe misunderstanding each other."

Employee: "Our snowcone flavor is just ice. We don't add other sorts of flavorings."

Mother: (Confusedly) "Uh huh. So ... why did Stars n' Shit think that... for a birthday party that would be... you know, what kids would like?"

Employee: "It's all natural."

Mother: "There's other natural flavors."

Employee: (raising her eyebrows) "I don't think you want space's other flavors."